

Determining Cohorts for Writing and History-Government

First, read across the school year row until you reach the cell that identifies the student's current classification. Then, read down the column to determine if that student will be included in a cohort in subsequent years.

In general, students who are freshman in August of an even numbered year will be part of the writing and history-government cohorts as juniors and seniors. Caution: Grade reclassification can impact inclusion in or exclusion from a cohort group.
