

Technology Updates
w/Tom Barnes, SWPRSC

A new age of publication and collaboration has started on the Web; it is referred to as Web 2.0 or the Read/Write Web.

Wikipedia defines this new environment as "a perceived transition of the World Wide Web from a collection of websites to full-fledged computing platform serving web applications to end users."

This will be an opportunity to look at some of these applications and how they can be incorporated into the school system.