

Using the Love Languages to Motivate Staff and Students with Joe Coles

We have to learn not to treat everyone the same!
Fair is not equal!!! We do not treat people the way we want to be treated, we treat people the way they want to be treated?

How do we find out how they want to be treated? We find out what motivates them!!! We find out their love language. Once we discover their love language we have to learn effective ways to use that love language on a consistent manner to keep others motivated. This breakout session will help you do these things!
